

RAVEENA KEEPS CLIMBING HIGHER

The strongest people are forged in the fires of relentless struggle. Through consistent efforts and an iron-will, one can surpass any hurdles that may come between them and their goals. CSSAR's Raveena is one such person who has proved her mettle through her achievements.

Raveena passed out from CSSAR in 2016 with flying colours and a steadfast sentiment to rise from the poverty that she was subject to during her childhood.

Having seen her mother exerting herself as a maid, Raveena wished to aid her in shouldering the burden of the family's finances as well as put in her two cents for the education of her younger siblings. With a father who didn't work and five others sisters in the household, Raveena has seen her share of hardships in life. But these hardships compelled her to work hard in life to provide for her family so that they can always rely on her in times of need.

Raveena recently completed her first year in B.A. Program from University of Delhi's open learning platform. She is currently working as an attendant at KFC, Pacific Mall, Subhash Nagar. She works there with a devout concentration and hopes of finding even better avenues to find the financial stability that she desires. CSSAR hopes that Raveena completes her graduation and finds herself a satisfying and fulfilling job in the future and climbs higher on the socio-economic ladder. Her dedication will not go to waste.
