LIFE GOAL

Philippians 3:13-14 "Brothers, I do not consider that I have made it my own. But one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus."

Have you ever felt like life is a race? A marathon where the finish line feels far away, and every step forward demands perseverance? The Apostle Paul saw his life that way, he was pressing forward toward a goal.

But what was Paul striving to obtain? What was he pursuing with such effort? His primary goal wasn't wealth, power, or worldly success—it was to know Christ Jesus.

Philippians 3:8 states, "Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus as my Lord." All his achievements, privileges, and positions—once so valuable—became meaningless compared to the surpassing worth of truly knowing Christ. Paul's singular focus shaped every step he took.

But knowing Christ isn't just about knowledge—it's about relationship. Christianity is not a religion; it's a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Mr. Immanuel Manickaraj is our Civil Engineer and also the Administrator.

Imagine someone describing the taste of honey in detail. You might appreciate their words, but until you personally taste it, you won't truly understand its sweetness. Psalm 34:8 invites us: "Oh, taste and see that the Lord is good!" Knowing God means experiencing Him, walking with Him, and tasting His goodness daily. For Paul, knowing and pursuing Christ wasn't one of his life goals—it was the life goal. Everything else not worthy in comparison.

But what about us? What are we pursuing? What drives us forward? In life's race, the finish line we choose matters. Are we pressing forward toward what truly lasts?
