

ANNUAL REPORT 2016-17

Building Social Capital

...message from President

NYDHEE during 2016-17, has travelled a vertical path rather horizontal, both in terms of geography and sector specific work. Most of our works were specific to Mayurbhanj district besides the study, we conducted in Jharkhand and West Bengal. Few distinctive activities, we initiated this year – extending support for tribal children facilitating their qualitative schooling with Goonj, water & sanitation infrastructure with Swachh Bharat Mission (SBM) etc. – were some appreciable tasks.

The very positive sign is, the Team NYDHEE, is growing and showing more maturity day-by-day. The Team is just young and passionate, yet to be more qualitative in terms of knowledge and skills. Led by Prasant (Executive Director), there were series of trainings that the Team has been undergone. Each of the capacity sharing sessions enabled their abilities to attend the community. The Team, today, has capabilities to handle multiple tasks, that helps me realising lesser worry on the Executive Director.

Funding sources, today, seems very limited. Whether Government or any bilateral agencies, receiving funding for a wider set of activities is a massive task. Till today, Prasant has been very firm in liaisoning with agencies, networking with like-minded institutions and mobilising funds to achieve for the Organizational objective in line with societal calls. Though the Board has been with the Executive Director's decisions, Prasant's dedication towards NYDHEE is instrumental. The Board has been playing catalytic to streamline certain supports for the Organization like staff welfare measures, Human Resource, Financial etc. policies.

I take this chance to thank the Governing Board Members, Office bearers and the Staff for their labourious work that lifted NYDHEE, where it is today and trying to bring the mission of NYDHEE to realization. I'm grateful to the donors, who have stood by us.

May the work of NYDHEE be always applicable to the marginalised sections of the people of Odisha and neighbouring state.

Forward

Strong local partnerships ensure the long-term sustainability of solutions that are equitable, environmentally sound and well-suited to the specific needs of each community. NYDHEE has been advancing on building its social capital from being with community to skill adaptation for its members. Working with diverse stakeholders with special focus on women and children issues ranging from education, health and economy with eco-impact has been prime to all its activities and initiatives. To attain such changes, our special trained and passionate members attend the community in the villages and their collectives.

Strategically, this year, we realised our work to ensure multi-dimensional platforms, facilitating integration and convergence of different aspects of the women and children's lives by acknowledging their interconnectedness. This year, we practiced few pilots to reposition women, children and communities at the centre of social mobilization and livelihoods enhancement. What we envisaged that community participation in governance and grassroots democracy – the mission of our new approach to deal with rural poverty – from 2017-18 onwards.

To feel the pulse of our vision - A society where the people believe in participation strengthening the process of democratic governance—we're partnering with various agencies for continuity and to pilot strategic programmes to influence development frameworks strengthening gender equality and interlinking issues like Education, WASH, forest & agro-based livelihoods security and environmental sustainability. We, valued stakeholders like children and women, banking upon empowering them and to solve the cause that deteriorating the socio-economic-environmental building process.

Successes have been realised! Still, we remain reminding ourselves to re-think the successes through a multi-layered review system and design to integrate & act better. I must thank our community, team, sponsors, advisors and members of general body for their constant contribution and commitment. Simultaneously, we call to the leaders from local to global – we're happy to learn. Your passion and association could connect and then establish possible support system enabling many lives, smiling further.

May the work of NYDHEE be always applicable to the marginalised sections of the people of Odisha and neighbouring state.

NYDHEE in 2016-17, an Introduction

Evidentially, social capital has considerable benefits for a range of economic and sociological outcomes. NYDHEE has been determinant to make certain strengths in building social capital, evidenced by its application to various thematic areas. During 2016-17, it's interest stemmed from the appeal of the concept to integrated sociology and economics of rural populace. Further, it has been valuing several ideas including civic tradition, civic-ness, civic involvement and social cohesion.

NYDHEE, during 2016-17, had been firm on capacity sharing of diverse stakeholders - from grassroots community to government officers and academics. The mutual learning-sharing environment, that the organization facilitated at various levels resulted in developing social capitals across themes. "Give a man a fish, he will eat for a day. Teach him how to fish, he will eat for lifetime ..." The wisdom of this ancient saying enables our team, are building confidence, skills and capabilities of poor women and men, so that they can stand for themselves and live better.

Creating Livelihoods Sustainably

A sustainable livelihoods approach empowers the poor by seeing them not as victims, but as decision-makers with their own sets of priorities. In line, NYDHEE values poor as human resources and hence, it facilitates transcendence of a sector-by-sector view of development accommodates the variety of economic activities an individual may rely on to subsist. To this end, the livelihoods approach takes a more holistic view of poverty, considering multiple resources beyond income levels and productivity.

NYDHEE, through its programmatic approach, is especially unique in mainstreaming animal husbandry based livelihoods inclusion with environmental sustainability as a consideration of relevance to poverty.

NYDHEE works with agrarian cum forest dwelling communities in Mayurbhanj district and thus, enables the rural inhabitants across agricultural prospects and forest produces. In collaboration with Heifer International India and TRIFED (Govt. of India), it's holistic view of individuals' sources of income and critical resources for households departs from the traditional income-centric view of livelihood promotion. During 2016-17, the organization facilitated knowledge and skill sharing platforms for rural women and men across the themes -

Building Social Capital

NYDHEE's Annual Report 2016-17

- 405 women received training on NTFP (tamarind) for sustainable harvest, preservation, market linkage and with value addition
- 5000 women (families) have been linked to 'Enterprise Development' initiative
- 1250 women (families) have been organized as Farmer Producer Company, registered in line with govt. regulations
- 1500 SHG members have been part of 5-Year Prospective Plan & Vision Building sessions designing their post-five-year livelihood and beyond
- 1250 SHG members have their Goatery Marketing Plan prepared in line

Anjali, re-born & touching lives!

Nuasahi, a village of nearly 200 tribal families under Gosanipal revenue of Bankati Panchayat. All HHs have dependency on agriculture, forest and daily labour work for sustenance. Women are not separated, but mostly integrative to family economy. Twelve women, in 2006, united and formed a SHG, Anjali. Through regular group money up to INR 20, they initiated their saving and dealing with local banking services. However, internal divergences made the SHG sleepy and by 2015, it was non-operational.

NYDHEE discovers Anjali and its members in 2015 during the progress of its program, MSED, supported by Heifer International India. Through a review meeting, it decides to revive the group and rejuvenate with newer economic opportunities. Facilitations made addition of another 3 numbers of women - Anjali was re-shared and refreshed with various trainings programs sustaining internal relationships to gaining profit out of the unity. In the same year, Anjali receives INR 50K loan from the bank for income generation activities - the group adopts veggie cultivation as the added option. Each of Anjali's members initiated kitchen gardening to field cultivation with on- & off-season vegetables, green gram, black gram and groundnut.

The distinctiveness in the group is they're sharing labour with no cost, i.e. mutually supporting on rotational basis. Goat manure, charcoal ash and legume leaves are providing nutrients to the crops and the women grow green and nutritious veggies for family and market. Each of the member, today, are supporting additional 25% - 30% of family economy through goatery, veggie cultivation and marketing the surplus. Family's male supports in marketing the surplus, however, seed selection to harvest, all has been taken care by the Anjali members shared mutually. The results are inspiring, that other groups and individuals are inviting such solutions for prosperity.

Education for Societal Change (ESC)

Education has no boundaries like within a classroom, but its larger and inner meanings must be realised connecting lives, livelihoods and humanitarian principles. NYDHEE's belief in education and its systems & sub-systems is that 'education' with its whatever form is the core to any development process and is to value the 'needs & deeds' of the people. Therefore, NYDHEE works with the schools at Gram Panchayat and Block level and facilitates education, either by individual or by a societal up-rise, that answer the social-economical-environmental imbalance and in turn bridge the knowledge gap with applied functions and manage resources sustainably.

During 2016-17, the understanding of environmental challenges and their root causes has evolved and sharpened with the passage of time, so has the concept and practice of Environment Education (EE). NYDHEE, working across the region, realises that there has been direct dependence of a large proportion of the population on the environment for subsistence and its visible consequences. In line, it planned "One Child One Plant" campaign with schools for the last three consecutive years. The campaign facilitates children led approach meant for the community and to understand, to teach and to practice plantation in the region and its after-care as well. During 2016-17, nearly 98 school children were networked with another 260 nos. of children under "One Child One Plant" campaign.

Besides, NYDHEE amalgamated with GOONJ (a Delhi based NGO) for project 'SAKSHYAM', objectively, enabling the tribal children through hand-holding support, boosting their abilities 'going-to-school' and entertaining learning. During the year, 80 nos. of tribal children from Kanachhinda village received books, dress, shoes and toys; also, there has been celebration of Raksha Bandhan and Diwali with those children with added values of forest conservation. Encouragingly, children led many social events and members from the community participated across EE, WATSAN and ESC; that is contextual and is therefore meaningful for the learner; encourages critical thinking and has a values orientation. Children led "Save Forest" rally, with an aim to secure their future against the current odds that are due to forest losses.

NYDHEE possesses belief that the goal of ESC is not just to reform education and society but to transform them, and is thus a process of lifelong learning and action. ESC thus goes far beyond EE.

What SAKSHYAM is !

SAKSHYAM is meant to enable the needy and make them capable ... herewith, NYDHEE partnering with GOONJ has been working with the agenda of empowering the orphan & marginalized children of Bangriposi block of Mayurbhanj district, Odisha.

Our vision is to improve the quality of life of the children who are more likely to be uneducated, malnourished, underprivileged, sick and work in vulnerable conditions.

Our mission is to change the lives of even a smaller group of vulnerable children (e.g. 80 nos.) and to bring smiles providing them fitting needs like food, clothing, shelter, health care, education, society etc.

NYDHEE, till date, provided books, good clothes, nutritious foods, health care, stationeries, safe drinking water and decent sanitary facilities etc. to these children. Various educational and recreational activities have been part of daily learning-sharing life. We have celebrated some key events Republic Day, Holi, Eid, Independence Day, Diwali etc. by distributing sweets and gifts. All these have been designed making the children easy living and discovering & adding colours to their lives.

Enabling Women, the Change-makers

NYDHEE highlights and supports the instrumental role of women and their decisive contribution to human development, prosperity and stability in the project locations. Across its operational regions, despite the progresses made in closing gaps between men and women over the past years, women continue to experience low rates regarding participation and access to equal opportunities in all spheres of public life. In parallel, the region continues facing several challenges which include a high unemployment both for men and women and a low economic growth resulting in an increase in illegal migration, child marriage, human trafficking, alcoholism and extremism affecting essentially young people.

NYDHEE, through its programmatic and non-programmatic strategy, has been celebrating the participation and successes of women in the region. The organization, during 2016-17, further, extended its facilitation giving women greater and equal opportunities to participate in the social and economic life; and in turn, could constitute one of the solutions to current constraints faced by the region. During 2016-17, NYDHEE in association with Heifer International India made an outreach of nearly 8000 community women, sharpening their confidence with improved skills on animal care & management.

- 5000 families received training on goat and poultry vaccination, deworming &adequate feeding
- 9 nos. of selected members undergone CAVE training
- Organised Corner Stone & SHG Management training for 2250 nos. of SHG members
- Facilitated improved animal management training for 3500 nos. of SHG members
- Nearly 3500 women (= families) led Kitchen Garden activities through focused sessions
- Nearly 2250 nos. of members of various SHGs undergone Gender & Human Rights training sessions adding social values to life

In addition, the women participants have been congregated to Farmer Producer Company under Enterprises Development tag; near about 2250 members of SHGs have their goatery marking plan through the process.

Economic Empowerment

Economic empowerment of women - a key strategy in addressing gender inequality, allowing the women to think beyond immediate daily survival and to exercise greater control over both their resources and life choices. Evidentially, NYDHEE's facilitation enabled the vulnerable groups' participation in the decision-making. The evidence also suggests that economic power has been 'converted' into increased social status or decision-making power.

Women led micro enterprise has been proven to be the significant tools for empowering the women socially and economically. During the year, the results showed that impact of micro enterprises based on goatery and poultry contributed most positively through economic freedom and social involvement.

Community WASH & Nutrition

NYDHEE, DURING 2016-17, takes a comprehensive approach to Water, Sanitation and Hygiene (WASH) and mainstreaming nutrition management at household level. The key strategies adopted were by coupling infrastructure development, community mobilization and behaviour change communications to improve WASH and nutrition in-take practices. NYDHEE worked closely with local governments and communities to address the full life-cycle costs and risks associated with sanitation investments and nutrition monitoring.

NYDHEE, through its non-funded, but passionate project design, facilitated -

- "Hand Wash Day" with 98 nos. of school children
- Organized 2-day training session and one-day on-field nutrition exhibition for 99 nos. of community women and men
- Constructed 32 nos. of toilets in Brahmani gaon village
- Facilitated Research-cum-Exploratory study in association with Native Energy on effective uses of water filters in Jharkhand and West Bengal with a sample size of 300 households

Fostering Participation

Participation of community and collaboration with like organizations and/or agency, drives growth and yields more positivity. NYDHEE, during 2016-17, strengthened its partnership with communities through sustained issue based engagements. Simultaneously, its collaboration with GOONJ, Native Energy, Heifer International India and certain government agencies like TRIFED and Swachh Bharat Mission. Each partnership has a cause beyond funding purposes and community stayed as the central stakeholder.

Bharati Naik, the Woman in Governance!

The Sarapanch of Chandanpur Panchayat under Bangriposi block has a different stature. As an independent candidate in Odisha Panchayat Election 2017, she won and continuing representing her Panchayat. Her journey from a marginal farm family house wife with her two son and husband to an elected people representative inspires the region, especially her understanding on development initiatives and participatory approach makes her the 'iron lady' in the local.

She comes from a nearby block, her post-marriage happy life faces certain financial burden after their second son. Daily living and negative savings pushes Bharati to find a parallel pay along with her family farming led by Ratikanta, her husband. By that time, for NYDHEE, she has been a resourceful woman as Bharati has actively been facilitating the learning from trainings to her fellow women. NYDHEE recognizes her and she joins with the organization as a community facilitator (CF). As the CF, she has established remarkable performance across the Panchayats with valued rapport with the community. Her understanding regarding goatery based livelihoods generation funded through Heifer International India is very firm and likely, she facilitates. Her command over the subject, understanding on local issues and participatory solutions makes her 'value for the poor'.

During the last Panchayat election, she gets mobilized by her SHGs mates, she stands alone without any political party's support and with 'no money trial', still she wins hearts and elected as the Sarapanch for Chandanpur Panchayat. Her journey, teaches, financial crisis won't stop, but strong determination, dedication and being for the community crowns one as leader in governance.

International Yoga Day 2016

NYDHEE adopted the theme or slogan of International Yoga Day 2016 - "Connect the Youth", dedicated for the good health, it attracted the youth to adapt yoga in their daily lives. Nearly, 50 nos. of community youth, both male and female, participated in the event from 21st - 23rd June 2016. Intense yoga teachers Mr. Sumit Kumar Das, Patanjali Ashram and Acharya Arun Ji, Vaidik Gurukul Ashram, Bichhania facilitated yoga programme through asana and pranayam.

Nurturing 'Goat Pass-on' for Socio-economic Solidarity

During 2016-17, NYDHEE, under its project banner Mayurbhanj Socio-Economic Development (MSED) facilitated two events i.e. in June and November. Women practitioners of goatery donated the baby goats (kid) to new members. In two phases, there're 101 nos. of kids passed to new members.

For Surekha (su-rekha), Sustainability Line-up through Sharing

She is Surekha, a mother of two male kids lives with her husband Paresh in Nischinta, Bangriposhi. She has been with Maa Ambika SHG and having some group savings. Her family's financial needs hardly managed through husband's occupation and through this group saving. Family has an agriculture based livelihoods coupled with little market access to sell the surplus vegetables. Health, education and daily needs of the family depend on annual agricultural output, however, that can't be sustained solely upon crop husbandry.

While Surekha's family economy was hindering their dreams, a simple idea, she received from her sister coupled with a gift. The idea was to adopt animal husbandry with goateries and the gift was a goat kid 'passed on' from her sister. She started from the one - quickly attained up to 15 nos. She got associated with NYDHEE's programme in 2016, received trainings on improved livestock management. Through institutional growth, she got access to market and economic progress was seen with social wellness. Her passion into the program participation reflects when she gifted two goat kids to other needy women in a "pass on" event.

Indigenous Seed Exhibition (Desi Bihan Mela) 2016

Seed is the basic to production and in turn local food security and economy. Indigenous seeds are harmonized with local climate, soil and low-input driven in comparison to high yielding and hybrid varieties. The gradual disappearance of the indigenous seeds and more dependent on external varieties are observable. In this context, NYDHEE initiated series of community sessions and united the seed savers of Bangriposhi and Bisoi blocks at Darkantia village, Dighi Panchayat. Nearly, 400 nos. of participants from community, administration, PRI and civil society institutions were gathered at the unique platform and shared their seeds along with rich experiences of farm-culture.

Celebrating Republic Day 2017

In an extreme rural village in Odisha, community's understanding on Republic Day cannot be purely imagined. NYDHEE reached such village Sikharpanga and celebrated the essence of being republic with 47 nos. of SHG women. The aim to this unique initiative was to enable the rural populace about their elementary rights and prime duties for the nation building process.

"Cloth for Work"

Jaldiha village in Budhikhamari Panchayat accommodates nearly 35 tribal families living with average life. Agricultural activities are prime along with forest collections and wage work to sustain daily life. The village has mud road with least maintenance, which further limits their routine of living. After repeated approach to the administration and PRIs, the villagers only received empty promises. When NYDHEE joins GOONJ, the idea of 'cloth for work' generated. The villagers agreed to spare their men-days to repair the mud road. There're 30 nos. of persons, each from households, contributed their labour 2 hours per day in the afternoon, and likely the road was completed within 15 days.

Observation of International Women's Day 2017

NYDHEE salutes the women power and celebrates their abilities shaping the households and the society with dignity. Objectively, nearly 90 nos. of women including Sarapanch and other PRIs united at Gosanipal village, Bankati Panchayat celebrating the women power. Citing examples of Mother Teresa and Arunima Sinha, the ground examples of Bharati Naik, Sarapanch - Chandanpur and Sabita Naik, Sarapanch - Bankati inspired the women's forum for their contributions in societal development. Bharati and Sabita toured from being housewife to an elected people representative, Sarapanch - they held the success of women into politics and for rural betterment. Women leadership was solely discussed in the platform strengthening the socio-economic base of the tribal women.

Visited the field of NYDHEE to obtain first hand information on pulling and dominant vaccinated. We also wanted to hear from the end-user the benefits of the programme. On our way out, we stop by a pharmaceutical outlet, Sahas Medical, where vaccinators and CHVs obtain their supplies. It is satisfying to be part of the project aimed to lift people out of poverty (through livestock). Thanks to HPI for making us a partner in this journey.

NYDHEE's Vision for 2017-18

"What we envisioned is enhanced community participation in governance and grassroots democracy, the key approach to deal with rural poverty"

- NYDHEE in 2017-18 will make a positive impact in our communities - prepare young people to be active citizens; embrace and contribute to social change.
- NYDHEE in 2017-18 will be shaped by young people in partnership with adults; enjoyed by more young people and adult volunteers; as diverse as the communities in which we live.
- Members of Community in 2017-18 will feel empowered, valued and proud.

VISION

A society where the people believe in participation strengthening the process of democratic governance

MISSION

Facilitating community institutions leading the process of sustainable development for uniform economy with environment friendly approach
